Dirt Courses Our Veins

Collectively, the Eden's Envy team possesses extensive education and experience in design, horticulture, conservation, forestry, agriculture, and education. For all of us, the company grew out of a deep reverence for nature. Relentless in our pursuits of knowledge, our affiliations and certifications evidence this commitment borne of innate curiosity. We are wildly passionate about learning.

It's Not Easy Being Green

It seems that everyone is talking "Green" these days, and no landscapers have a keener understanding of conservation and LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) than Eden's Envy. We are closely attuned to market trends, product innovations, and changes in best management practices.

Sustainability means making informed and intelligent decisions to live within our generation's ecological means. We converse with the site to determine what it wants to be, and create habitats, biodiversity, and native plant communities, so that Mother Nature takes care of the maintenance.

How we Nurture Nature:

- Use power equipment only when it increases efficiency and decreases costs.
- Employ hand tools, ladder jacks, winches, climbing gear, and other unconventional methods to decrease waste while increasing safety.
- Keep materials delivery and removal to an absolute minimum.
- Utilize organics and water conservation methods; practice integrated pest management.
- Streamline the planning, design, and construction process at every step using today's technologies.
- Implement innovative ways to harvest rain water and replenish aquifers.

Long Term Relationships

Our work extends long after the last truck drives away. Support and attention are included in every project we adopt. In fact, we provide clients with Post-Installation Evaluations to examine progress after completion. This creates an opportunity for us to see how the landscape is evolving, while also keeping the channels of communication open with you, our clients.

Because our designs and installations are so uniquely customized, it is important that whomever maintains your property understand the project. We will leave you copies of construction documents, materials listings, and diagrams to locate important elements. If you or your family wishes to learn from us about your plantings and care, consider our Gardeners' Partnership Program. This service distinguishes us from all other landscapers. Lastly, we are happy to provide ongoing maintenance and renovations to ensure that your new landscape flourishes.

Our Shining Hour

Consider an outdoor living space which might include: a gourmet grill, fire pit, bocce court, horseshoe pits, or putting green to keep guests entertained. Nearby, there should be a recreational area for children: perhaps a custom swing set with integrated fort, enormous sandbox, a trampoline pit, or see saw. The keystone of your human and wildlife habitat is a water feature, such as a waterfall streaming into a koi pond, or a pondless waterfall. To complete the endeavor, we will unify your Eden by incorporating numerous plantings for shade, consistent color, and fragrance. Add lighting for ambience, and your backyard vacations will envelop you in natural beauty and serenity.
